Doubtlessly, there is a strong relation between citizens and citizenship education. In order to know this well we should first know the methods involved and hence, use suitable tools in the field of waste- products management. In a brief review, it can be said that citizenship is a concept interrelated with culture, and every culture requires its citizens. So in our cultural society it is needed to focus on the methods related to the citizenship education which are in accordance with the every day needs and at the level of the culture of every town. The most important methods are face-to-face, animation movies, media, press, cultural competition, students, families, using TV and advertising posters ,culture-houses, brochure, radio, health providers of the neighborhoods and etc . Based on the finding, TV is considered as the most important tools to teach and educate, and this education should start from the childhood. In this way ,culture and the suitable behavior of the citizens in the filed of wastes product management are dependent to many factors which the most important one is education as the fundamental factor of a city and human resources development .
